Lexington, KY – Brett Construction Company continues to expand its market share and remains one of the nation's top 25 metal builders, as ranked by Metal Construction News, the nation's leading news magazine for the metal construction industry. The list ranks the top 100 metal builders in the United States by two segments – by square footage of metal constructed and by tonnage of steel purchased.

Brett Construction Company is the nation's #20 largest metal builder by tonnage of steel purchased with 2,274 tons in 2018, a 51.8 percent increase over the previous year's tonnage. The firm also ranks #23 in square footage, with 645,781 square feet, a 89.3 percent increase over the previous year's square footage.

"One of our greatest measures of success is our ability to build relationships with our clients," said Brett Setzer, CEO of Brett Construction Company. "We don't just build one project. We work to build a long-term relationship that allows us to partner with our clients on multiple projects in multiple locations. As their operations continue to grow and expand, we are fortunate enough to grow with them."
