

Brett Construction Company Employees Donate 500 LBS of Food to God's Pantry Food Bank

Some of the donation bins at Brett Construction Company collected on behalf of God's Pantry Food Bank for the holiday season.

Lexington, KY – The employees of Brett Construction Company are doing all they can to help make sure everyone in the community has a chance to enjoy a holiday meal year. The company hosted a food drive and employees donated 500 pounds of food for God's Pantry Food Bank.

"At Brett Construction, our employees are like family," said Brett Setzer, CEO of Brett Construction Company. "We have a great group of people who are always looking for ways to give back and help others in our local community, and this food drive is just one example of how they go above and beyond in their commitment to help others."

The food drive began October 9th and concluded on November 20th. God's Pantry picked up all five (5) filled barrels, containing 500 pounds of non-perishable food items on November 20th, and the donations will be distributed to those in need in the local community throughout the holiday season. This marks the third consecutive year that Brett Construction Company has participated in the holiday food drive for God's Pantry.

God's Pantry Food Bank seeks to reduce hunger in Kentucky through community cooperation, making the best possible use of all available resources. The organization began as one woman attempting to do all she could to address a need and has expanded to now serves 50 counties in Central and Eastern Kentucky. Mim Hunt began her work in the 1950s her hometown of Lexington, Kentucky, by filling her station wagon with food, clothing and bedding, and distributing it directly to individuals in need, working with this mobile operation until 1959 when the first pantry was opened. God's Pantry is part of both Feeding America and Feeding Kentucky, networks that work together to more effectively meet the needs of serving the state and the nation.

Brett Construction Company is a commercial construction company headquartered in Lexington, Kentucky, with more than 30 years of experience in Central Kentucky and beyond. The company employs 42 people.

— ### —